

2010 POINTS SYSTEM

The following rules will determine points awarded in all series and classes:

1. Only licensed INEX Members will receive points at INEX-sanctioned events. It is up to the driver to make certain that each race is an INEX National Points event and that the track submits race results. Drivers submitting an INEX application properly filled out and submitted to a certified INEX official, prior to the race, will count as a licensed member.

2. Only one feature race per day allowed except in the case of a rescheduled rain-out/make up race with prior INEX approval. All rainouts will be scheduled on off days when allowable. Rain outs scheduled for the following day can be allowed without INEX prior approval. A double feature will only be scheduled when the main event-starting grid has been set and no open date can be arranged. That make-up race will be open only for those drivers who qualified for or attempted to qualify for starting positions prior to the rain out. If the promoter wants to include all competitors in a rain make up event, only those eligible will receive points. If a driver races two races at two tracks in one day, the first race run will be the only one counted for points.

3. Double feature events will only count the first feature run, except in the case of a rain-out (see above).

4. A member must compete in a feature race, semi-feature race, or last chance event in order to receive points. There will be no points awarded if a driver does not advance past the initial qualifying events.

5. Semi-Pros and Young Lions when racing in the same race will share points as one class.

6. Events (including "B" mains) with less than five (5) competitors, for each division, (Thunder Cars, Young Lions/Semi-Pro, Pro, Master, Bandits, Outlaws) in the feature race will receive points according to the place finished with "ghost racers" filling the field necessary to five. Example-a feature that contains 8 Masters and 3 Pros will award full points to all Masters drivers, the top Pro driver will receive points equivalent to 3rd place or 94. In World Road Racing, the ghost racers will only fill the field necessary to three. For example-a road race feature that contains 8 Masters and 3 Pros will award full points to drivers in both divisions. Non-INEX members will not count towards the minimum five competitor requirement.

Depending on track availability, time constraints, promoter's discretion, the divisions may be combined together as one feature race. Drivers will receive points within their respective division towards state and national championship.

For example, if a Masters driver finishes 5th in a combined race and he/she is the 1st Masters finisher, and there are five or more Masters then he/she will receive 100 points for 1st place in the Masters division.

7. All results are made official when received at INEX headquarters in Harrisburg, North Carolina. In order to be declared official, results must be on track letterhead or on the official race results sheet issued by INEX. Results must be submitted in a timely manner and will not be counted towards driver standings if received after Friday, October 8, 2010. If you have missing results call your local track or INEX to arrange to have those finishes submitted. Once posted to the official US Legends/INEX website, any disputed finishes must be submitted to INEX within a two-week period.

8. Points are non-transferable between division. The division you declare at the beginning of the season on your INEX membership application and approved by INEX is where you will be scored. If a drivers wishes to change divisions during the 2010 season, he/she will begin a new point accumulation for that division and not be eligible for awards/honors in the other division.

9. Points are awarded as follows:
